The steamship Brooklyn, of the Dominion Steamship Co, which ran on the ledge near Fort Gorges Portland Harbor, April 6th, was floated at high water, Tuesday and at 2 P M, towed to the dry dock At 1 A M the fires were started in the furnaces At low water the pumps were set to work and in a few hours the steamer was free from water, with the exception of the compartment which contained the rent in the iron plates At high water the huge steamer had grown so buoyant that she swung round as on a pivot. A few minutes after, the tugs succeeded in hauling her off the rock and she floated free. As the Brooklyn moved slowly up the harbor crowds gathered on the wharves to see her As she passed along she was greeted by cheers When she reached the dock she was quickly entered. She will be repaired temporarily to enable her to cross the Atlantic and she will then be taken to England for further repairs

The Press says one day last week, at No 10 Pleasant street, Portland, Deputies Gribbon and Sterling hunted the cellar and finally found on the Pleasant St side that the wall was not solid An iron frame had been set into the wall, a board put up against the frame, and the stone was split very thin and laid with mortar on the board, the whole representing a solid wall The layers of stone and boards removed, a door was exposed which being pried up, access was obtained to a sort of ante-room four by six feet, dug out and well planked up In this place nothing was found but by digging into the wall a door was discovered leading to another chamber, and it took the officers fully an hour to open the second door, it yielding at last to the bar, falling downward, showing that if you only knew how, you could get in easy enough by touching a spring at the top The second room was quite large, and contained the barrels Both the barrels were on tap, having a common outlet in a large hose leading up through the wall between the sill and brick underpinning to the room above The hose was so arranged that when not in use, it would fall down completely out of sight

An East Sullivan correspondent writes Sunday last was observed as Children's day at the Union church, East Sullivan At the morning service, the pastor, Rev Mr Banghart, delivered a pleasing address to the children—subject, 'The rose fades, but in memory it lives' In the evening a concert was given The exercises were of a very pleasing nature, and reflected credit upon all the participants. The singing was especially good. The church was trimmed with flowers and evergreen The house was well filled morning and evening, and every one seemed to feel well pleased with the exercises.

Longley, 66 years, 4 months, 12 days, Hannah P Rogers, 63 years 8 months, 11 days, James B Ward, 58 years, 11 months, 7 days. The aggregate of the ages, 565 years, 8 months and 26 days, an average of nearly 71 years.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING

MR. JOSEPH M L. STRIKER'S SAD DEATH IN SARATOGA LAKE—HIS FRIEND NEARLY LOSES HIS LIFE IN EFFORTS TO SAVE HIM.

A Saratoga despatch says. A startling death by drowning occurred in Saratoga Lake Monday forenoon, just at the entrance to the Narrows and off Point Breeze, where the late Frank Leslie erected a lookout during the time of the college regatta a few years since. Word was at once sent to the village, and coroner C. E. Creal proceeded to the lake, where the following statements were made under oath. They tell the sad story quite fully:

THE MORNING BATH.

Edwin Villiers, of London, aged twenty-four years, a nephew of Mr. Truax, was sworn, and stated that he had been staying with Mr. and Mrs. Truax about six weeks; this morning, immediately after arising, he took a towel and started to bathe in the lake; he met Jake Butler, Mr. Striker's valet; in answer to a question he told Jake he was going in bathing, and the latter proposed to go and ask Mr. Striker to accompany him, to which Mr. Villiers assented; Jake went to the house, and returned saying Mr. Striker would soon join him if they would wait; Mr. Striker came and wanted Jake to go along; witness objected, on the ground that Jake was no good in the boat, and, as he could not swim, would make the boat heavy and awkward for bathing, as it was a small row boat, deceased wanted Butler, however, so we took him along, we rowed to a place about midway between the pier and Leslie's lookout on Point Breeze

IN THE WATER

While I was rowing out Mr. Striker was undressing, and directly I stopped to undress he jumped into the water and as he came up caught hold of the side of the boat and was joking with Jake, who was looking at him and laughing, I exchanged places with Jake, who had been sitting in the end of the boat and jumped off the end diving under water, while I was under water the deceased must have let go the boat and been drawn some three or four yards, where I found him when I came to the surface

'DON'T LET ME DROWN!'

He appeared all right, but a moment later called out 'Help me!' Jake looked at him, fair and plainly believed he was joking, and may still have that belief but I think he became frightened, Jake was standing in the boat and considered it a joke, after calling to Jake three or four times he cried out 'Don't let me drown Throw me an oar!' when I saw he was in earnest and as the oar Jake threw came quite close to us, I put my left arm around him to hold him up and gave him the oar to hold, placing it in his hand, he let it go at once and kept calling, 'Help me Jake?' and paid no attention to me at all, I must have placed the oar in his hand three different times, I left him once to get the oar he had thrown away, he was apparently struggling all the time to get to the boat, and paid no attention to me whatever

UNABLE TO SAVE HIM

In the meantime the boat was drifting away Jake having but one oar and being unable to row, I supported the deceased as long as I could we went under the water together several times, at length he turned and gripped me with both hands I could not get away from him for some time but finally wrenched myself free and went down, I did not see him again, I was very greatly exhausted, and could barely keep myself above water until a boat came and rescued me

THE VALET'S STATEMENT

Jacob Butler was sworn and said he was thirty four years of age and had served Mr Joseph M L Striker of No 340 West Fifty sixth street, New York, during the past two years as valet, we left New York last Wednesday for a five weeks' stay at Saratoga Lake with Mrs Striker's friends Mr and Mrs. Henry S Truax, deceased was grandson of General Garrett H Striker and was about twenty four years old, he was married to Miss Cora A Henderson of Pueblo Col, on April 12 last, this morning Mr Striker came down about half past six o'clock intending to go out to bathe, we rowed to about the middle of the lake, opposite the Truax place when Striker and his friend Villiers undressed put on their bathing suits and dived into the water, repeating the performance several times

TOO WEAK TO SEIZE AN OAR.

When deceased dived for the third time he came back to the surface and then disappeared, on reappearing the second time Mr Striker called for the oar, which witness threw to him, at this time Mr. Villiers was near and trying to help Mr Striker, who was evidently alarmed and apparently drowning, witness threw the other oar, but Mr Striker was too weak to hold on to them, he then sank for the third time and witness did not see him again

STARTLING INTELLIGENCE

Mrs Angie Truax, wife of Henry S Truax, was sworn and corroborated Butler's statement as far as her knowledge extended They were aroused at the cottage about seven o clock, with the startling intelligence that Mr Striker was drowned and Mr Villiers barely saved from a similar fate, preparations then were at once made to recover the body.

HOW VILLIERS WAS SAVED

Henry Rogers, who keeps the toll bridge across the neck of the lake was at his place and heard excited cries of the colored boatman, who was standing and screaming with all his might Rogers at once took a skiff and started for the scene his son George following in another boat He arrived just in time to save Mr Villiers who was totally exhausted and was revived only after vigorous exertions continued for a considerable time

As soon as intelligence of the affair reached the village grappling irons were sent to the lake and efforts made to recover Mr Striker's body These were for several hours without result as the water is quite deep at that point with considerable current, but late this afternoon it was recovered The wife of Mr Striker stood on the shore while they were grappling for the corpse in an agony of grief, and she is prostrated with the shock, Mr. Villiers is the second life Mr Rogers has saved at this place, and he deserves a medal from the Life Saving Service

BROUGHT TO THE SURFACE

The body was recovered about five o'clock by the aid of a line of turtle hooks The grappling hooks accomplished nothing but this line with two or three hundred hooks strung along, was dragged over the bottom of the lake until the hooks caught in Mr Striker's clothing and the body was brought to the surface. It will be sent tomorrow to New York, where the funeral will take place The coroner's inquest this evening elicited no new facts and rendered a verdict that death was caused by accidental drowning Mr. Villiers had already sunk once when he heard Mr. Rogers calling 'Hang on!' and struggled desperately to save himself until the rescuers could reach him.

CUTTING THE TUNNEL.

A QUARTER OF A MILE UNDER THE DOVER STRAIT

(London Telegraph)

A fall shaft, a steam engine an air locomotive and a couple of wooden shanties mark the spot destined, it may be, to abut upon the English mouth of the Channel tunnel, or rather of a Channel tunnel—for there are other schemes afoot to join London and the extremest point of the continent of Europe in a continuous rail way journey and without change of carriage Sir Edward Watkin airily calculates that the cost of the enterprise in which he is interested would amount to £3 000 000 sterling, and that the tunnel would allow the passage of 250 trains each way every day, at an average speed of forty five miles an hour. So that tunnel of twenty-two miles in length might be traversed in half an hour—a speed, be it said, very much higher than that kept up in the longest tunnels of the St. Gothard between Switzerland and Italy.

At the bottom of the shaft, at the mouth of the boring, no more than seven feet in diameter from end to end—excepting here and there a somewhat wider square opening, technically called a "turnout"—we found a couple of trollies, fitted with seats on either side, after the manner of the tram-cars of the military train familiar to habitués of Wimbledon camp. Running along the sides of the trolly, close to the ground, was a footboard like that attached to a railway carriage, and above the seat was a semi circular hood lined with red baize, sufficient to protect the head and shoulders from dropping wet or particles of falling debris, but not wide enough to save the legs and feet. By reason of the space taken up in the lower arc of the circle, so as to make a level floor, along which the rails were laid, it was necessary that we should sit with knees drawn up and heads bent down during the whole time occupied in journeying to the face of the tunnel and back again.

A Rembrandt or a Salvator Rosa might have done pictorial justice to such a scene. Under foot for a great portion of the way the ground is almost ankle deep in slush, and the stalwart fellows who drag and push the trollies—trudging manfully along—have enough to do to keep their foothold. The travelers, for the greater length of time moving through a dim twilight, can not well make out the features even of those who sit beside them Now and again the little electric lamps, set in rude niches of the naked gray chalk, cast a brilliant, but fugitive light on the passing train Then, for awhile, all is again but darkness visible There are shadows above and beneath and all around. Looking backward or forward through the deepening gloom, the traveler sees an ever receding, seemingly endless tunnel shaped perspective lit at long intervals as with fiery eyes Onward, and yet onward—no sound save the splashing made by the tall workmen tramping through mud and the drip of the water upon the hood above our heads—we are dragged and pushed beneath the shingle and the sand of the shore for a time level with the beach, and then down, a quarter of a mile deep, past low water mark, under the bed of the channel

The bore has cut clean through the gray chalk in a circle as round and true as the inside of a wedding ring. So thoroughly indeed, is the instrument adapted to the work and to the material that in dry places it is possible to see the chisel marks made a couple of years ago At intervals along the route, where it is feared the water might come through, the sides and roof have been faced with lead or clay, and held up with solid iron bands, apparently about eighteen inches wide Sometimes in the fitful flashes of light the eye rests upon falling red rivulets like streams of blood pouring down the damp walls Ever and anon there are 'faults' in the clayey chalk not yet remedied So we go on and on moments seeming as minutes, until the electric lamps cease altogether and the long, awful cave is enveloped in a darkness that would be impenetrable but for the glimmer of a few tallow-candles stuck into the bare wall of the cutting Even a mile and more from the mouth of the shaft it is not difficult to breathe for the same machine which works the bore pumps drives a continuous supply of fresh air in to the seven foot pipe which at present forms no more than the nucleus of a tunnel

At a distance of 2 300 yards from the pit mouth we come upon the simple and wonderful piece of machinery which can pierce through the bed of the sea with extraordinary celerity and at a cost cheaper than is required for the making of an ordinary tunnel under a hill By permission of the president of the board of trade the engineer is allowed to make a couple of turns in order to show our party the method of its working I recently we remount our not too comfortable carriage and pass stooping once more along the fearsome narrow way past by spaces of horrible shadows and glimpses of welcome light And finally, we are swung up through the shaft into the outer air where the glad sunshine catches the tall cliff's face and bathes the smiling and yet unbetrayed channel in an atmosphere of golden glory

FRIDAY, JUNE 20, 1883.

Ex-Governor Fenton of New York is reported to have predicted that the Republicans will carry that State next November.

The three stained glass windows inserted in the Channing Memorial Church at Newport, since its dedication, will be consecrated at three special services, to be held on the second, third and fourth Sundays in July.

Col. D. B. Parker, the new postmaster at Washington, was in the war a private in a New York regiment, and subsequently an orderly at Gen. Grant's headquarters, where he was in charge of the mails. Since the war he has been in the postoffice service in different capacities, and has been a very efficient official.

The American Rifle Team arrived at Queenstown, Wednesday morning, on the steamer Alaska, in excellent health and spirits. They will proceed by the Alaska to Liverpool, and will be accompanied by Sir Henry Halford and Mr. Waller, of the British team, who met them. A warm reception awaits them on their arrival at Liverpool by a committee of citizens headed by the Mayor.

The Secretary of the Treasury has referred to the Court of Claims the case of General Adam Badeau, U. S. A. (retired), now Consul General at Havana, Cuba. This case involves the question of the right of a retired army officer, in the consular service to receive pay for both offices. It also involves the general question whether the acceptance by a retired army officer of a position in another branch of the Government is not equivalent to a resignation of his commission in the army.

"There is no Democratic ticket to support," said the son of ex-Senator Thurman, "and as between Hoadley and Foraker, I prefer to vote for an open and honest Republican, who was nominated honestly, than support a man like Hoadley, who is not a Democrat and secured his nomination by the most unblushing means—means that would cause one of the disciples of Bookwalter to blush. I shall not only vote for Foraker but work for him, and the woods are full of just such) Democrats."

The Republican party, says the Troy Times, has been in power more than twenty years. During that time it has conducted a great war, and appointed probably not less than 1,000,000 men to office. These men handled more money than the government had ever received and paid out in all the previous years of its history, and it may be set down for a certainty that the percentage of losses from dishonesty was infinitely smaller under Republican than under any other partisan administration. More money and property, we believe, were stolen from the government during the four years of Buchanan's administration than there have been stolen from it since, or during the long lease of Republican rule

The safe of the Granite State, which was burned in the Connecticut river a few weeks ago, contained but failed to preserve $75 in bank notes belonging to the crew The charred fragments, to all appearance a hopeless lot of rubbish, were sent to Washington, where experts with powerful microscopes have succeeded in identifying a considerable part of them. These certified fragments have all been redeemed by the banks which issued the notes except one, of the denomination of $5. This the National Bank of Virginia, at Richmond, refuses to redeem, according to the Hartford Times, for the reason that the officers of that institution cannot see in it any resemblance to a bank-note, and are unwilling to accept the decision of the Treasury Washington.

Judge Foraker, the Republican candidate for Governor of Ohio, says: "The Republican party has acted upon the idea that American labor ought to be protected; that the laborer ought to have a fair day's wages for a fair day's work; that he ought to be able not only to procure for himself and his family the necessities of life, but to procure means to educate them, and to advance in the social scale and to make better citizens out of themselves; that the laboring men of this country ought not to be required to work in competition with the workmen of other countries who are ground down by bad government; that this country ought to be independent in all products within its capability. The wisdom of this policy by the Republican party is attested by the unexampled prosperity all the time it has been in power."

Charles Rogers, alias Rufe Minor, alias "Pine," a noted bank thief, was arrested in New York Tuesday. Rogers is one of the most notorious bank sneaks in the country. Among his achievements are the robbery of a Baltimore bank only five weeks ago of $10,000 in bills, and a big robbery at a government office in Washington at a still more recent date, and for which a warrant is out for his arrest. He is also charged with the robbery of $2,800 from Insurance Agent Rufus Rose, at Albany on January 20th, the theft of $2,360 from the Brooklyn Postoffice on February 7, the stealing of $71,000 from the office of the People's Passenger Railroad Company at Philadelphia, on March 2, and of $4,000 from the Providence Gas Company on May 1. He will have a long term to serve for all these crimes.

The Ohio Supreme Court has decided the Scott Liquor Tax law constitutional. The following is a syllabus of the decision: "The statute of April 17, 1883, entitled 'An act further to provide against evils resulting from the traffic in intoxicating liquors,' authorizing annual assessments upon the business of trafficking in intoxicating liquors, is a valid and constitutional enactment. The provisions of the second section of the statute do not operate where the real property on and in which the business is conducted is occupied by a tenant who holds the premises under a lease for a term, executed before the passage of the statute. Judgment is rendered for the relator in the mandamus case, and the judgment is affirmed in the case of Benner against Vander and others." Judge O'Key dissented as to the first point in the syllabus and also from the judgment rendered. This is the decision which the Republicans were hoping for, and it will be an important aid to them in the coming campaign. It not only vindicates the wisdom of Republican legislation, but it will serve to keep the liquor issue in definite shape before the minds of the voters.

CROPS IN MAINE.

Reports from our correspondents from many sections of the State and those gleaned from our exchanges, says the Lewiston Journal, as well as personal observation in the four counties of Androscoggin, Sagadahoc, Lincoln and Knox, indicate a full crop of hay, providing the weather shall be favorable for harvesting. New lands and newly seeded grounds are burdened with a heavy crop of clover, but the recent excessive wet weather has caused much of it to lodge, and being so far advanced we fear much of it will fail to rise again and the sooner the mowing machine is put into it the better for both the present and succeeding crop.

The corn crop is looking admirably, and though some delay has been occasioned in its first hoeing by the wet weather it has held its own with the weeds, has a good color, and is stocky and thrifty in appearance. On some farms the late rainy period will cause discouragement to the owners who are relying on the farm for their corn and wheat supply, but these in comparison to the whole State are but few, and on the whole should the weather continue fairly dry through July and August the present abundant moisture will quickly dissipate and vegetation advance to its usual state of forwardness for the season. A week of sunshine in July has a wonderful transforming power when the ground is filled with moisture.

Lincoln and Knox counties, within the borders of which we spent the most of the second week in June, is not distinctly an agricultural district. The inhabitants of the towns bordering on the bays and inlets of the coast, have heretofore and are now considerably engaged in fishing and other sea-faring pursuits. Much of the land, too, on the coast, is ledgy and unsuited for agricultural purposes. But notwithstanding all this, we found many good farms and independent, substantial farmers and stockmen in all the towns through which we passed. In every section crops were looking well, the grass crop abundant, and farmers were hopeful and, in the main, happy and contented.

The potato crop gives promise of being considerably larger than last year both from area planted and forwardness of the plants, at June 15th being considerably in advance of last year, in fact, much ground at that date in '82 was not planted.

Wheat in that section is but little sown, but oats and barley we looking splendidly. What wheat we saw was good, and rye—grown only to a limited extent—was headed and nearly in blossom.

Fruit trees of all kinds blossomed profusely, but some doubts are expressed regarding the fruit setting as well as the abundant bloom gave promise. No violent disturbing influence prevailing from the elements it is fair to presume that the apple crop of that section of the State will be nearly an average one.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTIONS.

THE IOWA STATE CONVENTION.

The Iowa State Republican Convention met Wednesday. Hon. John A. Kasson was elected temporary chairman. The committee on credentials reported that every county in the State was fully represented, with no contested delegations. Col. D. E. Henderson of Dubuque was made permanent chairman. He made a speech, pledging the party to the home as against the saloon, and to home industries as against the influences of British gold and power. His speech was enthusiastically applauded. One of the vice-presidents was Addison Rhodes of Mobaska, a former slave, who had been sold on the block.

Buren R. Sherman was nominated for Governor, O. H. Manning for Lieutenant Governor, and Prof. Akers, of Linn, for Superintendent of Public Instruction—all by acclamation. The convention then proceeded to an informal ballot for Supreme Judge. Before the first formal ballot was concluded, it became apparent that Judge Reed was successful, and he was declared the nominee of the convention by acclamation. The platform pledges the party to legislation which shall prohibit the liquor traffic; condemns unjust discrimination against non competing points by railroad combinations and pools, and demands legislative interference, and condemns free railroad passes to State officials.

The tariff plank is as follows. Stability is desirable in such public policy as relates to and affects all productive industries, and we condemn the threat of Iowa Democrats to disturb and keep at unrest said industries and the capital and labor employed therein, by gradual and persistent efforts to so change the customs laws as to establish free trade. We insist upon such revenue laws as will encourage American industries and protect American labor, in order that American workingmen shall have a fair day's wages for a fair day's work, and tend to assure permanent employment.

MINNESOTA REPUBLICANS

The Minnesota Republican State Convention assembled at St. Paul, Wednesday, with C. D. Gilfillan as Permanent Chairman. Gilfillan was elected by a vote of 140 to 96. Gov. Hubbard was renominated by acclamation. A resolution was introduced condemning the action of those Republican legislators who refused to vote for Windom as Senator after he had received the caucus nomination last winter. This was laid on the table by a vote of 149 to 92. The platform approves the river and harbor bill, and the re-enactment by Congress of the arrears of pensions clause, upholds a system of internal revenue which levies taxes upon articles of luxury, such as whiskey and tobacco, together with a system of duties, upon imports so applied as to provide the revenue for the necessary expenses of the Government and so adjusted as to encourage the development of the manufacturing and labor interests of the whole country. It endorses the administration of President Arthur and favors submitting the prohibitory constitutional amendment to the people. C. A. Gilman was nominated for Lieut. Governor; Fred Vorbaumback for Secretary of State; W. J. Hahn for Attorney General; J. H. Baker for R. R. Commissioner and Chas. Kittleson for Treasurer.

MAINE NEWS.

BATES COLLEGE.

Commencement Day.

LEWISTON, June 28. Bates College Commencement began at ten o'clock. The day was overcast, but the attendance was large. Many of the Alumni and friends of the College were present. Degrees were conferred on the class of 1880, in course. Honorary degree of D. D. was conferred on Rev. John Clifford, of London, England, Rev. Geo. Constantine, of Smyrna; Ph D. on Rev. N. E. Brackett, of Harpers Ferry. Prizes were awarded as follows: Sophomore debate, A. B. Morrill; Junior prize, excellence in composition and oratory, first, E. R. Chadbourne, $75; second, Miss E. L. Knowles, $30.

At the Commencement Dinner

this afternoon addresses were made as follows: For the State, by ex-Gov. Garcelon; for the Country, by Senator Frye; for the College, Rev. G. S. Dickerman; for the Alumni, E. A. Lowell, class '63; for the church, Rev. Mr. Dyke, of Bath.

A letter from Gov. Robie was read expressing regrets that he could not be present.

This evening Rev. Dr. Herrick delivered an address before the National Literary Society; subject, "The Liberator of Thought and Faith." President Cheney also gave a reception to the graduating class closing the exercises of the week.

GORHAM NORMAL SCHOOL.

The Annual Exercises.

GORHAM, June 28. The annual examination of the classes of the Gorham Normal School School commenced to-day. Gov. Robie and Hon. Joseph A. Locke, of the Governor's Council, and all the trustees were present. The attendance was somewhat smaller than usual owing to the unfavorable weather. To-morrow morning the examinations will be concluded and the graduating exercises of the class of '83 will take place.

THE UNIVERSALISTS.

State Convention at Dexter.

DEXTER, June 28. Rev. C. A. Hayden, delivered the occasional sermon before the Universalist convention Wednesday and in the evening the missionary meeting was addressed by Rev. J. C. Snow. To-day resolutions to the memory of Rev. Mr. Dellerman and Zenas Thompson, deceased, were adopted. The sermon this forenoon was preached by Rev. Mr. Hooper, of Norway and this afternoon by Rev. W. W. Lovejoy, of Calais.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Civil Service Examination.

BOSTON, June 28. About 60 applicants appeared for examination before the civil service commission in this city this morning. The examiners were presided over by Hon. Dorman W. Eaton, chairman of the board. The examination to-day which lasted four hours was for entrance to the custom house. To-morrow applicants for the post office department will be present.

A Petition for a Pardon.

BOSTON, June 28. A hearing was given to-day before the Pardon Committee of the Executive Council on the question of pardoning S. Angier Chase, the Fall River forger, from the State Prison. The petition presented was signed by 700 prominent citizens and strong appeals were made on his behalf by several well known gentlemen, who argued that Chase could live but a short time as a prisoner and that justice had been fully satisfied. No one appeared in remonstrance. The committee reserved a decision.

HARVARD vs. YALE.

The Former an Easy Winner of the Eight-oared Race.

NEW LONDON, June 28. The eighth annual Yale-Harvard eight-oared, four mile straight away race, was rowed here at 5:30 P. M., Harvard having virtually a walk over winning in the slow time of 24 minutes 46½ seconds; Yale's time was 25 minutes 59 seconds. The city was full of visitors, fully 6,000 strangers being in town. The course was lined with steam, sail and row boats and the observation train which ran along the bank of the river was crowded. The water was in fair condition, the wind being about southwest and moderate. Both crews were unusually prompt in appearing at the line.

The boats started promptly. Yale got a trifle the best of the send off and at the first half mile, with her rapid, jerky stroke, was a good, clear length ahead, but here the steady, long sweeping stroke of Harvard began to tell and she gradually crept up until at the mile flag the boats were bow and bow, both crews pulling about 40 strokes per minute. From here to the finish the long, steady stroke of Harvard gave them a commanding lead. At the mile and a half Harvard, pulling 34 strokes per minute, was a length ahead of Yale, pulling 40. At the two mile flag Harvard was a good two lengths to the front, pulling in fine form, while Yale, though pulling a jerky stroke in good form, was slowly but surely dropping astern.

NEW YORK.

The Custom House.

NEW YORK, June 28. The Collector of Customs will keep the Custom House open until 3 30 P. M. during the next two weeks for the reception of duties in order to accommodate merchants who want to make withdrawals before and after the new tariff act goes into effect the first of July.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Narrow Escape of the Passengers.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 28. The fast express train from Summerville this morning when three miles from that city was turned from the main track on to a siding by a misplaced switch and collided with two loaded cars. Engineer J. Samuel Smith and the fireman were killed. The engine was demolished. There were 150 passengers on the train, but none were hurt.

THE INDIANS.

More Atrocities.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, June 28. The Apache atrocities have broken out again in Chihuahua. Two shepherds were found last evening with their heads cut off and scalped.

THE COMMENCEMENT SEASON.

At Harvard College.

BOSTON, June 28. Harvard Chapter of the Fraternity Phi Beta Kappa held its annual reunion to-day, and the following officers were elected:

President, Joseph H. Choate.
Vice President, Theodore Lyman.
Corresponding Secretary, James Crosswell.
Treasurer, Henry G. Denny.

After the business meeting, literary exercises were held in Sanders' theatre. Charles Francis Adams, Jr., delivered the address and Robert Grant was poet of the day.

At Trinity College.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 28. At Trinity commencement to-day the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on Hon. John S. Phelps, ex-Governor of Missouri. The degree of B. A. was conferred upon nineteen graduates and that of M. A. on fifteen.

At Dartmouth.

HANOVER, N. H., June 28. The exercises at Dartmouth's 113th annual commencement day opened at 8 30 A. M., with a meeting of the Alumni in the College Chapel. At ten o'clock the procession formed from Dartmouth Hall, under the direction of Hon. Frank A. Spencer, of Cleveland, class '63, as marshal, and marched to the College Church, where the usual programme was carried out. At the conclusion of the literary exercises, President Bartlett conferred the degree of Master of Arts on 61 graduates and the degree of Bachelor of Science on 8 graduates of the Chandler scientific department.

After the class exercises in the church the procession marched to Bissell Hall, where the alumni dinner was spread. After dinner President Bartlett said he would turn the gentlemen present over to the tender mercies of Hon. John Wentworth as presiding officer. Mr. Wentworth made a brief address and then introduced Gov. Hale, who was followed by President Bartlett. Following the speeches came the conferring of degrees.

A Conditional Gift.

HANOVER, N. H., June 28. At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of Dartmouth College a communication was received from Hon. E. A. Rollins, of Philadelphia, of which the following is the essential part: Having for some time considered the needs of the college and being desirous to relieve them, I hereby promise to pay to the treasurer the sum of $30,000 to be expended in the erection of a chapel on a lot north of Wentworth Hall. This promise I make on the following express conditions: First, that in addition to the sum now paid him there be paid Dr. Edwin D. Sauborn annually $400 during his natural life; secondly, that $60,000 shall be first obtained in actual bona fide subscriptions on or before January 1, 1884, for the immediate erection of a fire proof library building for the use of the college. The trustees accept the gift and will use their utmost endeavors to comply with the conditions.

FROM WASHINGTON.

General News.

Alabama Claims.

MARKET ON 'CHANGE.

Another Bad Break.

CHICAGO, June 28. Markets on 'change suffered another bad break this morning and the forenoon sessions were marked by uneasiness and at times great excitement. The depression extended to provisions and grain, but was more especially felt in pork and wheat.

Pork has shown a steady and heavy decline the past three days and this forenoon took another tumble of 42½ to 50 cents. Lard descended 7½ and 17½, making the quotation for July option less than that touched on the Saturday made notable by the failure of McGeoch. Wheat, which has displayed weakness during the past week, dropped 2½ cents per bushel in addition to-day.

These declines renewed all the uneasiness of the past two weeks and the announcement was made at noon that H. O. Kenyon & Co. and John Sinclair had succumbed. They have been dealing in grain but were not rated as very extensive dealers. One cause assigned for the unusual weakness displayed by the market is owing to the bad showing made by the firms of McGeoch, Everingham & Co. and M. S. Nichols & Co., particularly the latter firm, from whom a better report as to assets had been anticipated.

NEW JERSEY.

$39,000 Short.

NEW BRUNSWICK, June 28. The total deficiency of L. D. Jerrard, the missing ex-County Collector, is $39,000.

MARINE INTELLIGENCE.

A Rough Night on the Sound.

NEW YORK, June 28. The rain storm was very severe on Long Island last night, doing some $20,000 worth of damage to the crops. On the Sound it is said to have been one of the roughest nights known in the month of June in over ten years. Schooner Jane Hadley, from Providence for New York, with a cargo of phosphates, was driven ashore near the Old Field Point and will probably go to pieces.

Disabled Steamer.

LONDON, June 28. The National Line steamer England, which arrived at Liverpool from New York, brought ten saloon passengers of the Anchor Line steamer Belgravia, before reported disabled, which was spoken 300 miles southeast of Halifax. The Belgravia sailed from New York for Liverpool June 16.

A Total Loss.

CHATHAM, June 28. The brig Martha A. Berry, Capt. Lawrence, of and for Portland from Richmond with a cargo of coal, sprung aleak near the entrance to Vineyard Sound and made so much water that the captain was obliged to run the vessel ashore in Chatham Bay to keep her from sinking. The vessel and cargo will probably prove a total loss.

Arrested for Destroying His Vessel.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28. Capt. Lewis Parker, of Warner & Merritt's fruit schooner Mary D. Lueb, was arrested this afternoon by a Deputy U. S. Marshal upon a charge of wilfully and maliciously casting away and destroying that vessel on May 26th.

A SINGULAR ACCIDENT.

A Dock and 200,000 Feet of Lumber Falls in to a Lake—Several Men Drowned.

MUSKEGON, Michigan, June 28. A dock with 60,000 feet of lumber on it fell into the lake this afternoon, precipitating twenty men who were at work on it into the water, and three or four of them are missing. A boy was crushed under 40,000 feet of timber. Two immense piles of lumber adjoining, which threaten to fall, prevent a search for the bodies of those missing.

THE WEATHER.

WAR DEP'T, OFFICE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER, Washington, D. C., June 29—1 A. M. Indications.

For New England: [illegible] weather; south to west [illegible]

FOREIGN NEWS.

A PROBABLE MURDER.

LONDON, June 28. A desperate attempt has been made in a carriage of the railway train running from Calais to Paris to murder and rob Rev. Mr. Withborne, an English clergyman. The murderer attacked him with a chisel, stabbing him five times. The assassin tried to make his escape when the train arrived at Amiens, but was captured after a terrific struggle. The wounds of the clergyman are very dangerous and it is not expected he will survive them. The assailant is also an Englishman.

One Hundred and Thirteen Deaths from Cholera.

DAMIETTA, Egypt, June 28. One hundred and twenty-nine deaths have occurred during the last 24 hours, 113 of which were from cholera.

Brief Notes.

LONDON, June 28. The Austrian Government has ordered all vessels from Egypt to be quarantined.

The Standard's correspondent at Hong Kong says: The American Minister to China is doing his best to effect a settlement between France and China, but his personal influence is light.

BERLIN, June 28. The German Government will probably send medical experts to Damietta to investigate and report whether the malaria now raging there is veritable cholera or only cholera morbus.

THE FIRST CECILIA EXCURSION.

The morning was foggy, clouds lowering, and many wavered in their minds whether to join the excursion, but the Club and about two hundred of their friends assembled on the barge and tug, and promptly at eight bells the order was heard, "cast off the lines," and we were off for the day.

Soon the sun dispelled the clouds, "burned off" the fog and a jubilant tone pervaded the party. Saluting each steam craft and mill as we gayly steamed down the river, playing hide and seek with the Cimbria, which had left her wharf just before us, now dodging behind some wooded height, and again appearing on the broad expanse of water in the various windings of the river. Thus we sailed, delighting anew in the beauties of our lovely Penobscot, and listening to the stirring waltz or march played by the Brewer Band, or the glees and choruses sung by the Cecilia Club, until Islesboro was reached, at half past twelve o'clock.

There the tug left the barge, and, freighted with the most substantial of its passengers—substantial as to years, judgment, weight, etc.—steamed off for Eagle Island, while the younger and lighter remained, to whirl in the mazy dance, a hackneyed expression, but more forcible now than when originated, as then the dances had some of the "poetry of motion," and now have only the poetry of speed, and seem to be races to determine who shall accomplish the most steps in a given time, tiresome to the beholder as well as the dancer! "Oh, for the stately minuet of our grandparents to balance our brain!" This, from one who perhaps would better have gone to Eagle Island, and sat quietly on the boat, breathing salt air and having nerves quieted by the heavenly scene and perfect atmosphere.

At Islesboro some sought the shelter of trees where lunch was served by fair hands, or dinner was partaken of at the new Hotel, relishable and well served, and then parties of two or more were seen strolling or driving about the Island.

At four o'clock the whistle of the tug was heard and the party returned from their cruise down the Bay and partook of, or witnessed, as their tastes dictated, the diversions of the youths and maidens, and all went as merry as one could desire, and at six o'clock the party left for home, everyone in high glee.

Talking over the events of the day as we sailed in the beautiful sunset and twilight, all declared that the excursion was the most successful they had ever participated in.

To the young men who had charge of affairs is due much credit for the perfect arrangements which secured to every one, comfort, satisfaction and entertainment.

The Brewer Band surprised us with their excellent playing and the "baby cornetist" won many hearts by his strenuous and efficient assistance.

The Club were unfailing in their efforts to entertain their friends, both by fine rendering of songs and choruses, and the military display of the Heavy Dragoons on the hurricane deck, which caused many a side to ache with laughter.

A prominent and delightful feature of the occasion was the whistling of Miss Ella Chamberlain, of Boston. Her bird-like power was kindly exhibited as faithfully as at Music Hall or Opera House, and was fully enjoyed and appreciated.

The promptness with which everything was conducted, the wonderful good nature which possessed everybody, and the entire absence of anything objectionable—the beauty of the day, the variety of the entertainments all contributed to make this a most successful affair, and if every undertaking of the Cecilia Club is as successful as this has been, we shall yet see [illegible]

ROLLER SKATING RINK. The Bangor Roller Skating rink came to a close last evening after a very successful season. A large party was present on this occasion and this last opportunity to skate was very generally improved. Roller skating is a pastime which Bangor people seem to greatly enjoy and when the rink opens in the fall it will doubtless be liberally patronized.

MEMORIAL WINDOW. The members of B. H. Beale Post, No. 12, G. A. R., have decided to place an elegant memorial window in the front of the First M. E. Church edifice in this city, in memory of their fallen comrades. At the regular meeting last night the following committee was chosen to receive subscriptions and procure a design for the window: Col. A. C. Hamlin, Col. A. B. Farnham, Hon. H. Hamlin, C. E. Getchell and Col. C. V. Crossman.

HYMENEAL. At 11 o'clock, yesterday forenoon, Mr. J. Proctor Snow, of New Bedford, Mass., was married to Miss Lottie F. Winship, of Bangor, the ceremony being performed at the residence of the bride's mother on Prospect street, by Rev. E. E. Peck, in the presence of the immediate relatives. Refreshments were served and the presents were numerous and elegant. The couple left on the Fast Express, in the afternoon, for their new home in New Bedford.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL. There was a very pleasant gathering at City Hall, last evening, at the festival given under the auspices of the First Methodist Society. Strawberries, ice cream and other refreshments were served in the early part of the evening and also after the entertainment. The programme embraced a cornet solo by Mr. R. B. Hall, song by Mr. Harry Springer, cello solo by Dr. Wasgatt, duet by Misses Annie Wasgatt and Lulu Bridges, violin solo by Master Oscar Wasgatt, song by Miss Arnold and song by Miss Bridges. The entertainment proved one of much interest and the several participants received warm applause. The decorations of the hall were neat and appropriate.

PENOBSCOT COUNTY GRANGE. Penobscot County Grange held its regular meeting with Golden Harvest Grange, Carmel, Saturday, June 23d, Worthy Master Gregory presiding. The attendance was good and the meeting very interesting. A fine address of welcome by Mr. C. A. Chase was responded to in appropriate terms by Mr. Isaac R. Clark, of Queen City Grange. Short speeches and reports from the Granges occupied the time till noon. The members of Carmel Grange were untiring in their efforts to entertain all in the most cordial manner. After an excellent dinner the choir discoursed good music, and Miss Pickard gave a recitation with pleasing effect. Mrs. Ann S. Weed read an interesting paper, which was followed by remarks and the appointment of committees. About twenty applications for membership were received, accepted and the degrees conferred. The next meeting will be with Mystic Tie Grange, Kenduskeag, the third Saturday in August.

Y. M. C. A. RECEPTION.

Words of Welcome and Words of Farewell.

The Y. M. C. A. reception last evening drew to the rooms of the association a numerous party of ladies and gentlemen. The interior of the rooms had been transformed greatly under the direction of the ladies and the appearance presented was most inviting. Flowers were bountifully distributed and the fragrance added materially to the interest of the occasion.

After a short social time the musical entertainment commenced. The programme opened with a finely presented cornet duo by Messrs. Charles Dickey and Edwin Adams, with organ accompaniment. The selection "Luna" was next sung by a quartette and this was followed with a song "A Man-of-war's Man," given by Mr. Geo. T. Moody.

Owing to the indisposition of the President, Mr. Geo. W. E. Barrows, the duties of presiding officer during the evening devolved upon Mr. Arthur F. Stetson, one of the Vice Presidents. After the song by Mr. Moody, acting President Stetson called upon Pierre McConville, Esq., who delivered an address of welcome to Mr. J. A. Gauld who succeeds Mr. Frost as General Secretary of the Bangor Association. The welcome extended was a cordial one and Mr. Gauld responded in fitting words. The gentleman has for several years been General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., in St. John, N. B., and he has special qualifications for the duties devolving upon him. After the completion of Mr. Gauld's remarks the quartette sang "Moonlight on the Lake."

The chairman of the evening then called upon Mr. E. C. Frost, the retiring General Secretary, to step to the front and read an address, after which Mr. W. L. Miller, in behalf of the members, presented him with an elegant Bible as an expression of their esteem. Mr. Frost responded very feelingly, thanking them for the kindly interest they had always taken in him and the association work.

The remainder of the evening was passed in a social manner, the members making the acquaintance of Mr. Gauld and bidding farewell to Mr. Frost and wife, who leave on the train this evening for their new home in distant Oregon in the thriving city of Portland. The best wishes of their myriad acquaintances follow them in their long journey.

FIRE AT THE BANGOR HOUSE.

Narrow Escape from a Serious Conflagration.

In the vicinity of nine o'clock last evening the fire alarm was sounded and the department were quickly wending their way up Main street towards the Bangor House where report said the fire was located. Investigation showed that the rumor had been founded on fact and that fire had been discovered on the third floor of the new portion of the hotel in a room adjacent to a chimney. It seems that the chimney had been burning out during the afternoon and early evening and that the heat generated had ignited the woodwork.

The firemen were quickly on the spot and managed the whole matter in a very judicious and creditable manner. The woodwork around the chimney was chopped away and thus the exact locality of the flames discovered. Only a small amount of water was used and none of it was wasted. It was necessary to cut through the floor into the story beneath and two rooms on that floor and two rooms immediately below were damaged considerably by water, smoke, etc. The lady boarders seemed cool and unfrightened, as did also the help, thus preventing anything of the panic which might have arisen under similar circumstances.

In regard to estimating the loss it cannot at present be computed with accuracy. Landlord Beal had recently renovated very thoroughly that portion of the house, repainted the ceiling and wood work and recarpeted the floors. The damage by fire, smoke, water, etc., is therefore considerable and was estimated by Mr. Beal, last evening, to be in the vicinity of $3,000, which is fully covered by insurance. The escape from a more serious conflagration was remarkable.

MAINE STATE COLLEGE.

Class Day Exercises—A Very Enjoyable Exhibition—Mr. French's Illustrated Lecture—Close of the Commencement Season.

Yesterday was Class Day at the Maine State College and a large audience assembled to witness the closing exercises of the Commencement season. The hall was beautifully trimmed and decorated as usual and the audience enthusiastic as the several parts were performed. Following was the

The orator took for his theme international justice, the central idea of which was the establishment of a system of international law which should be competent for the settlement of all international disputes and a deprecation of a resort to war as an arbiter for the settlement of all differences of magnitude.

In the absence of the Historian, who has sailed for South America, the history was read by Mr. Sutton. It was written in the scriptural style and divided into four chapters.

Chapter 1 gave an amusing account of how the class was sent into the field to work, how they agitated the potato bug so that he fell upon the ground instead of into the receptacle provided for him, how they pulled up several rows of corn as well as the weeds which they were sent to root out, and how for the exploit a greedy cow got the credit to the discomfiture of the class; and how they fed the orphan pigs upon vinegar instead of milk, and of its failure as a financial move; and how they broke the commandments laid down by one whom they styled Leo.

Chapter 2 recounted how they were called Sophomores from their exceeding great knowledge; how they got many merit marks on the wrong side of the ledger for their pranks with the Freshmen; how the Freshmen were again chastised for wandering from the paths of duty as such in seeking to carry canes and to have their pictures taken with the sticks prominent in view, and how they were finally reduced to order.

Chapter 3 recited how the class went to the State fair at Lewiston and the honors they acquired as mighty men of war, and how they "received great aid in their reading of German from an English translation of the same;" how they held an exhibition of their great skill in writing and how Jennie the Good gained the prize, to the gratification of the class, she being the only representative of the gender sex in it.

Chapter 4 gave an amusing account of their skill in bed making, in consequence of orders from the faculty; of the misunderstanding between them and the authorities in the matter of a new uniform and how amicably it was settled and the "misunderstanding understood." The average age of the class is 22 years 4 months, the average weight 145 pounds, the average height 5 feet 7½ inches. In religion there are 2 Methodists, 2 Christians, 1 Congregationalist, 1 F. W. Baptist, 2 Catholics and 6 with no choice. In politics 2 are independent, 5 Democrats and 7 Republicans.

The Poem by Miss Michaels was read in fine style and is given entire.

Four years! with their fruitage of fancies and dreams;
Up the ladder of hope—perchance of renown,
Four years of the cloud, and a fringe of bright gleams
From the Freshman's cross to the Senior's crown.

From the topmost round, we now smilingly look,
To the foot where our first timid step were essayed,
With a Freshman's stare at a Freshman's book
Now doubting, now pouting, now madly afraid.

But another proud step and in Sophomore dress,
We strut like the pheasant and poise like the "dude,"
The Freshman appears like a tramp in distress
So rustic in garb and in manners so rude.

Again, and the cap of a Junior we don,
With feathers and paint like an "Indian brave,"
How cheerless and blank seem the years that are gone
As we float on the crest of a sparkling wave!

We are Seniors to-day! how exalted the place,
Our banner unfurls from the tossing mast,
We'll put on the steam for a glorious race
And honor our motto "Au Front" to the last.

We shall meet in life's journey full often in thought,
And merrily dream of old pleasures and pain,
We shall cherish the prize that our industry brought
And live old scenes over and over again.

And now to the lips creeps the sorrowful word
That chills the warm heart with a shuddering spell
How oft have we lisped it, how oft have we heard
I speak it, dear teachers and classmates—Farewell.

The prophecy was well filled with sharp hits at little foibles taking things by contraries and gave much amusement to the audience as well as to the class.

The Valedictorian said: "It is an important crisis in the life of the student when he lays aside his books to leave the institution where he has spent four years of his life work. Here he has worked, but under the direction of those older and wiser than himself. His task has been set before him and he has been required only to do it and to do it well. Now he is his own master. He builds and is his own architect. He should choose that part in life which he is best fitted to perform. There is a place for every one; a place where he is needed; a place which can not afford to lose him and which he cannot afford to lose." The foundation is as essential as the super-structure. Never were opportunities for success in life so great and so many as now. Any branch of honest industry is honorable. Said Carlyle to a student, "The man without a purpose in life is like a ship without a rudder, a waif, a nothing, a no-man. Have a purpose in life if it be only to kill and divide oxen well, but have a purpose, and having it throw such strength of mind and muscle into your work as God has given you."

The singing of the Class Ode, with Miss Michaels at the piano, was finely done to the tune of Auld Lang Syne and received much applause.

Smoking the pipe of peace was the occasion of much amusement. All but few of the class indulge in the noxious weed, and this with the shaking of hands concluded the exercises. The music by Andrews' Orchestra, of this city, was superb and heartily applauded, Mr. Hall for his cornet solo receiving several beautiful bouquets.

Commencement Lecture.

In the evening the exercises of Commencement week were brought to a close with one of Harry W. French's brilliant illustrated lectures the special subject on this occasion being "The Land of the Midnight Sun," which was greeted with enthusiastic applause by a large audience.

FOREPAUGH'S GREAT SHOW.

A Grand Treat To-morrow in Store for the People of Penobscot Valley.

To-morrow, Forepaugh's Mammoth Show will exhibit in this city and it is expected an immense populace will come out to witness the great display. The Boston Advertiser discourses as follows:

"The one great tent-show—circus, menagerie, and customary accompaniments—of the season, so far as Boston is concerned, is Forepaugh's. Its coming has been well heralded, and its tents now cover a great portion of the old Coliseum grounds. The first performances were preceded by a street pageant in the morning. The latter event called out thousands of people, who bordered and in many places crowded the sidewalks along the advertised route of the procession. The display was uncommonly good, and in gorgeousness exceeded anything of the sort that has ever been seen here. The representations of Cleopatra's barge in which she is journeying to meet Marc Antony, and of Lalla Rookh's departure from Delhi, are brilliant in effect, elaborate in design, and strikingly suggestive of historical relations. The procession was of great length.

The show inside the tents is one which has many superior features, and there is enough of it to make attractive three or four ordinary circuses. The exhibition of wild animals is large, and comprises many rare and interesting creatures. The herd of elephants number twenty-five, and including the famous Bolivar, which, although not so tall as the more famous Jumbo, is of greater weight. This animal was given a piece of tobacco by a boy, as the audience was passing out Thursday afternoon, and the result was a swinging blow with his long trunk, and the knocking over of three or four people, the offending person included, but nobody was hurt.

The circus performances take place in three rings, on a stage, on trapezes erected beyond the third ring, and on a hippodrome track surrounding the whole. Among the novelties presented is a snake-charmer, a woman, who performs feats with numerous reptiles which are remarkable, however distasteful they may be to many; a "strong man" named Jagendorter, who appears for the first time in America; Leonati, who rides a bicycle up and down a narrow spiral roadway, to the height of 50 feet; the Silbons, comprising four men and one woman, new to this country, whose performances on the trapeze are new in several ways, and seem to be more wonderful in accomplishment than those of the most expert of those who have come before them; and, last of the novelties, a "dude" for a clown. The performing horses are beautiful and well trained. Miss Deacon's equestrian display is as graceful a ring act as one often sees. The slack wire, balancing and juggling feats are all neatly performed.

The races on the hippodrome track are attended with the usual dash and are creative of the usual amount of excitement. The exhibition of trained elephants is very good. One good feature of the modern circus is conspicuous by its absence, that of leaping or of "ground and lofty tumbling," as the bills often have it. Not one-half the attractions of the show have been referred to in this notice, but the rest must be dismissed with the assertion that none of them are inferior.

Bowdoin College Commencement.

The 78th Commencement of Bowdoin College occurs July 8—13. The following is the programme:

Sunday, 10:15 A. M. Sermon before the Young Men's Christian Association by Rev. C. M. Southgate, of Dedham, Mass., —4 P. M. Baccalaureate Sermon by Prof. G. Campbell.

Thursday, 9 A. M. Prayer Meeting of Alumni and friends in Y. M. C. A. Room. —10:30 A. M. Commencement Exercises, followed by Dinner in Memorial Hall.—8 P. M. Reception by President Chamberlain. Alumni are requested to register their names and procure tickets for the Commencement Dinner between the hours of 8 and 10:30 Thursday morning, at the Cleaveland Lecture Room, Massachusetts Hall.

Friday, 8:30 A. M. Examination of candidates for admission to College, at Massachusetts Hall.

J. B. Doris's Circus Coming Soon.

The streets of Saratoga presented a holiday appearance Saturday morning during the time devoted to the extensive parade of John B. Doris's Inter-Ocean Circus. The great line of gilded cars, vans, coaches and wagons presented an imposing appearance and elicited frequent applause from the well-pleased spectators, who, in the afternoon and again in the evening, thronged the spacious tent, watched with interest the rare beasts and birds contained in the menagerie, and later on gazed with wonder on the intrepid feats of the arena. Several of Mr. Doris's specialties are noteworthy. The two headed lady, M'lle Christine; the Japanese Prince Saturma, in balancing and juggling feats; Millie Tournour, the aerial queen; Frederick, Gloss and La Van, athletes, and Zazel, who was fired from out a cannon—all had their admirers and were generally acceptable to all who had the pleasure of seeing them. The entertainment was free from all objectionable features and was conducted in a very orderly manner. Many of our best citizens occupied seats under the canvas, and expressed themselves well pleased with the entertainment provided. Mr. Doris will receive a hearty welcome should he come this way again.—Saratoga Journal, June 15.

The man who was known as the "Living Skeleton," died and was embalmed, after having been exhibited at cheap museums. He is said to have weighed 46 pounds when he died, having been reduced to this dreadful state of emaciation by long continued dyspepsia. LOVE IN ASHES.

BY SARAH J. CLARKE.

"Scant of nine, and the washing all out," mused thrifty Mrs. Chutter as she scrubbed the porch. "Deacon, I'll get you to set the big tub down cellar, if you will."

"Certain, wife," responded the deacon from his cart in the door-yard.

"There comes Kendal's new basket wagon, with two women in it," pursued the lady, wringing her mop. "Isn't that the horse that balks?"

Being in the critical act of emptying a four gallon bucket of soap, the good man vouchsafed no reply. When the jellied mass had quivered and splashed into the barrel in-waiting he looked up just in season to see the gray little pony shy at the cart and go tearing down the road.

"They'll upset! They'll be killed! Run after 'em? Do something!" shrieked Mrs. Chutter.

"Don't get excited, wife; they're all right now. That girl drives like a man."

And picking up his bucket, the moderate deacon marched off for a second supply of soap. But though the little incident had failed to shake his nerves, it did make him oblivious of his wife's wash tub poised on the landing of the dim stairway, and as a natural consequence he put his foot in it. The tub rolled; the deacon swayed like a pestle in a mortar; there was a lively succession of bumbs, followed by a clatter and a thud, and deacon, tub and bucket strewed the cellar floor.

"Adab and Abibu!" ejaculated the fallen saint, with sinful energy.

"What's up, uncle?" cried an anxious voice overhead.

"I can tell you what's down," was the grim response. "Come and brace me while I try to step."

The owner of the voice, a fine looking youth of one-and-twenty, was already groping his way among the debris, his aunt in the rear with the camphor.

The deacon's attempted locomotion resulted in a groan.

"I must have sprained my ankle, Harvey. If I'd postponed this tub race till after I'd been my rounds, 'twould have been better calculation."

"Oh I wouldn't worry about my rounds, uncle. What's the hurry?"

"My customers expect me to-day, that's the point. I hate masterly to break my word. Now there's the widow Cleaves waiting for me to take her ashes, so she can scrub after me with the boiling suds, and up at Kendall's they're clean out of soap."

"And not clean without it, eh?" laughed that young man. "See here, uncle; since you are going to feel so uneasy about disappointing the people, why not send me in your stead?"

"You, in your fine clothes! I should smile," mumbled Mrs. Chutter, with the stopper of the camphor bottle between her teeth.

"Why can't my uncle's mantle fall upon me, auntie? I was intending to borrow the frock."

"Well, if I do say it, you've got the Vance common-sense. Some young men of your bringing up would be ashamed to drive a soap cart."

"Humph! Some young men would be fools," said the deacon with warmth. "Nobody has any call to be ashamed to deliver such soap as I make. If you've a mind to run the team to-day, Harvey, I shall be obliged to you."

Fifteen minutes later the worthy deacon was extending his aching length upon the sitting room lounge, and gazing through the open window after his youthful proxy, who, duly initiated into the mysteries of the calling, was driving away in the big blue cart. Behind jounced and creaked an empty ash-bin, flanked by two covered barrels of soap; but the swinging seat was clean and comfortable, commanding a fine view of the surrounding country.

A half-mile and more the road wound through his uncle's fertile acres, for Deacon Chutter was withal a farmer. Farming, indeed, was his chief vocation, soap-boiling being an accessory venture growing out of sundry extensive experiments in the use of leached ashes as a fertilizer. It was one of those tuneful mornings in early June when all nature joins in glad doxology. The newly arrived bobolinks, tipsy with glee, carolled in the meadows. The orioles, hanging their hammocks in the elms, could scarcely work for singing. Gay breezes whispered love to the graceful young clover, then danced away to flirt with the coy hill-side birches. Everywhere were life and motion irradiated by the benignant sun. For Harvey Vance's study-weakened eyes there was too much glare, too much flutter. He lost no time in putting on his blue goggles.

"Who cares if they do make me look like a frog?" mused he, as he settled them astride his aristocratic nose. "Thanks to them, and to change of air, my poor optics are undoubtedly improving. I shall be back to college by fall. Ha! ha! if the fellows could only see me now!"

And here, to the infinite surprise of staid Dobbin, his new master broke into a rollicking class song—a song abruptly ended as a turn in the road revealed a near farmhouse.

"If I peddle soap, I'll peddle it with due decorum," soliloquized the youth, knocking upon the back door with the handle of his whip.

To have seen the capable air with which he measured ashes, bushel by bushel, giving in exchange money, or gallons of soap, according to the customer's desire, one would have pronounced him bred to the soap business. Since his mouth's rustication at his Aunt Chutter's he had made the acquaintance of most of the farmers along the river, and these expressed their gratification at meeting "a judge's son that wasn't afraid to work," but outside the parish limits his triumphal march terminated. He was a stranger in a strange land. One man asked if he had bought out the deacon; a second hoped he wasn't proposing to run an opposition team; and the loyal widow Cleaves could hardly be persuaded to surrender her ashes, because, forsooth, she preferred to trade with Deacon Chutter.

Obedient to his uncle's instructions, at her cottage the young man took a cross-road to Kendall's, a summer hotel, familiarly styled "The Eyrie."

"You'll find it a long three miles," had been Mrs. Cleaves' parting remark.

"Three miles and not a neighbor between here and there: I couldn't blame the widow if she should want to change her situation," mused the deacon's deputy, scanning the western horizon. "Shouldn't wonder if that cloud yonder meant business. I thought the sun was too bright this morning. Well, a little high-toned thunder will drown this everlasting racket."

Facing about to wedge in position an empty soap barrel, he observed two ladies driving up the hill in a basket phaeton.

"That looks like Kendall's team that gave auntie such a panic this morning," thought he. "Those ladies are some of his boarders, I suppose—Tom Cavender's mother and sister, for aught I know. I have heard they were stopping at the Eyrie. Goodness! wouldn't it be a joke if I should fall in with them to-day!"

Meanwhile the younger lady in the carriage was merrily commenting on the quasi soap-man's active figure conspicuously and amply clad in the deacon's canvass frock and overalls.

"I hope he isn't a perambulating maniac, mamma."

"It's the very cart that frightened the pony!" was the terrified response. "Do let me get out, Lila! Oh! oh!"

But already the horse was backing down the hill. Harvey sprang from the cart, and grasped the refractory animal by the bridle just in season to prevent the carriage from overturning in the ditch.

"Thank you, sir—thank you very much," said the girlish driver, the color rushing back to her face. "Now, if you'll be kind enough to lead our pony past your cart we shall be yet more obliged."

"A pretty girl—stylish, too, but abominably patronizing," thought the young Sophomore, stalking resentfully at the pony's head.

"There, now your cart is behind us, we shall have no further trouble. I'm sorry to have detained you, sir. Infinitely obliged."

In leaving the ladies Harvey mechanically raised his hat, the deacon's hat—alas! yellowed and frayed by farm service. The touch set flying the ashes upon its brim, giving our receding hero the effect of being caught away in a cloud. A little blinded, but laughing behind his goggles, he went back to old Dobbin, and waited for the ladies to go on in advance.

But what ailed that surprising pony? The young lady chirruped to him; he would not budge. She snapped the whip; he stood as stiff as the wooden horse of the Trojans.

"Oh, daughter, daughter, he's balking!" cried the elder lady, who appeared to be an invalid. "If there's anything I'm afraid of, it's a balking horse."

"Allow me, madam," said Harvey, again advancing.

He twisted the animal's ear a moment to divert his attention, then took him by the bit and led him several paces.

"See, mamma, the pony has got over his sulks. Thank you, sir."

THE PRINCESS OF DELHI IN THE STREET PAGEANT OF THE GREAT FOREPAUGH SHOW, TO-MORROW.

The Great Forepaugh Show, which exhibits here to-morrow, will present the now perfected and greatly augmented, sublime and ever pleasing illustration of that beautiful oriental romance, "Lalla Rookh, Princess of Delhi Departing from the Vale of Cashmere."

"Who has not heard of the vale of Cashmere,
With its roses, the brightest that earth ever gave;
Its temples and grottoes, and fountains as clear
As the love lighted eyes that hang over their waves?
If woman can make the worst wilderness dear,
Think, think, what a heaven she must make of Cashmere."

The Princess Lalla Rookh, will be personated by a handsome Creole girl, who will appear seated in a veritable Royal East Indian Howdah, upon the back of a kingly elephant, the largest on this continent, whose embroidered velvet trappings touch the ground; a fair young female slave sits fanning the Princess through the rose-colored veils, with feathers of argus pheasant's wings, and following will be seen her attendants, the Grand Chamberlain Feramorz, "The Poet," and a troupe of lovely Tartarian and Cashmerean maids of honor. There will also appear, mounted upon elephants, camels and Arabian horses, the heroes and heroines of the immortal poem, Mokanna, "the Veiled Prophet," and the two lovers, Azim, "the brave," and Zelich, "the True."

"——She who delighted, ranged
The algum groves that shade Bokhara's tide,
All life and bliss with Azim by her side."

Also the central figures of the entire entrancing romance, including the beautiful Peri.

"The Nymph of a fair but erring line,
In quest of the gift most dear to heaven."

and Hafed, "the Fiery" and Hinda, "the Fair,"

"And never yet hath bride or maid
In Araby's gay harem smiled,
Whose boasted brightness would not fade
Before Al Hassan's blooming child."

Followed by the beautiful Sultana, Nourmahal, "the Light of the Harem."

"And tho' bright was his harem—a living parterre
Of the flowers of this planet—though treasures were there,
For which Solomon's self might have given all the store,
Yet dim before her were the smiles of them all,
And the light of the harem was young Nourmahal."

And Selim, "the Lord of the East," and Namouna, "the Enchantress," together with twenty-one royal elephants, droves of camels, and all the ladies of the court of Delhi.

"The valley's loveliest all assembled,
All the bright creatures, that like dreams
Glide through its foliage, and drink beams
Of beauty from its founts and streams.
And all those wanderings minstrel maids
Who leave—how can they leave?—the shades
Of that dear valley, and are found
Singing in gardens of the South."

Together with rajahs and mogul lords follow, accompanied by cavaliers in costly armor, mounted upon

"Steeds with their housings of rich silver spun,
Their chains and poitrels glittering in the sun;
And camels, tufted o'er with Yemen's shells,
Shaking in every breeze their light-toned bells."

In keeping with the author of Lalla Rookh's description of this lavish and luxurious spectacle are seen the guards of the great Kedar Khan, with their silver battle axes and maces of gold, followed by the Great Nazir, or Chamberlain of the Harem, and the retinue of the court of Delhi, mounted upon elephants, camels and Arabian horses, decorated with oriental trappings and bearing aloft the royal standards, the entire scene recalling to the beholder the glories and the grandeur of the distant Indies, the mysterious land of the Vedas, the parent of the modern world, where

"* * The gorgeous East, with richest hand, Showers on her kings barbaric pearl and gold,"

the whole forming the most magnificent, picturesque and realistic oriental spectacle ever presented in the New World, requiring an expenditure of Two Hundred Thousand Dollars in its preparation, eclipsing all displays in pageantry ever produced by any exhibition, and in itself worth miles of travel to behold. Remember, this grand pageant takes place during the forenoon of the day Forepaugh's Great Show exhibits here.

LETTER CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carriers when addressed to street and number. People should inform their correspondents of above and have their letters addressed accordingly.

Persons leaving their address at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is much more convenient to have the street and number on, and they will be delivered earlier than if the same is put on at the office. Carriers make two deliveries daily, the first trip supplying the extremes of their routes.

Collections are made morning noon and evening in season for important mails.

Holidays the Carrier's Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9½ A. M., and from 7½ to 8½ P. M. Sundays from 8½ to 9½ A. M.

Any irregularities in the Carriers' department should be reported to the office

ENVELOPES.

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and request to return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, (samples of which may be seen at the Cashier's window) when ordered in lots of not less than 500.

A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State, across the left end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with.

The public are earnestly recommended to procure Stamped envelopes with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed, if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge.

First class envelopes of above furnished at $2.20 per thousand.

Stamps cut from Stamped Envelopes cannot be used to prepay postage. The use of such stamps is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars.

Stamped Envelopes, spoiled in directing, are redeemed at this office.

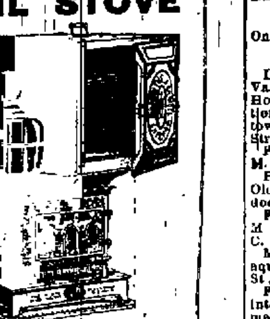
OIL STOVE



IS "SAFEST AND BEST."

CALL FOR THEM.

The A. & W. has been entered at Expositions and Fairs in all parts of the World. Has been shown in competition with nearly 200 makes of oil stoves, and in every instance has been awarded the first premium medals over all competitors. Notably at Paris Exposition, Provincial Fair, Toronto, Canada; World's Fair, Melbourne, Australia; Cincinnati Exposition, Industrial Exposition at Providence, R. I., New England Fair, Atlanta Cotton Exposition.

Remember the A. & W. is the only oil stove made which will bake and broil, or bake and carry on some other operation at the same time, obtaining direct heat. Is the only oil stove which can be exposed to draughts of air and not be affected, while other makes smoke as badly as the commonest kerosene lamp if the least puff of air reaches them. PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State st., opposite Kilby, Boston

Secures Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS:

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse.

CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
late Commissioner of Patents."

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business in your line, and advise others to employ you. Yours truly,

GEORGE DRAPER.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold in tins only (½-lb. and lb.) by Grocers, labelled thus:
